About Me

Coming from the world of music production, I have extensive experience in digital media production. Through my computer science studies, I expanded my arsenal to include graphic design and web design skills. My IT skills are also characterized by experience in system administration and a love of operating systems. Last but not least, I'm always looking forward to adding new chapters to my towpath. During a career transition phase, I pursued technical projects independently and further developed my practical skills in a home lab environment.
